2009 Waterfront Director Position

Camp Chewonki for Girls
Wilderness Camp for girls ages 8-16

The Chewonki Foundation is dedicated to helping people grow individually and in community with others by providing educational experiences that foster an understanding, appreciation, and stewardship of the natural world and that emphasize the power of focused, collective effort. The Chewonki Foundation is a year-round environmental education center located on a 400-acre peninsula in mid-coast Maine with out lying facilities at Big Wood Pond in Jackman Maine, Big Eddy Campground on the West Branch of the Penobscot River, Fourth Debsconeag Wilderness Camps, and on several islands along the Maine Coast. Chewonki offers a summer wilderness camp for girls ages 8-16, a summer camp program for boys' ages 8-15, co-ed wilderness expeditions for 13-18 year olds, Family and Adult wilderness trips throughout the year, - an 11th grade program, the Maine Coast Semester, and environmental education programs for school groups. Visit our website at www.chewonki.org.

Camp Chewonki for Girls officially opened its doors at Fourth Debsconeag Lake Wilderness Camps on June 24, 2008, after 93 summers of residential camp for boys. Our new camp offers a suite of wilderness based programs for girls ages 10-16, with an introductory program on Chewonki Neck for girls ages 8-11. Chewonki has served girls for the past four decades with wilderness expeditions and school programs, but we have never operated a summer camp exclusively for girls.

Fourth Debsconeag Lake Wilderness Camps is nestled in a wilderness area of vast proportions, surrounded by 90,000 acres of conservation lands owned by the State of Maine and The Nature Conservancy, just 12 miles south of the West Branch of the Penobscot River and Chewonki's Big Eddy Campground. Another 50,000 acres just south of the site, in the 100-Mile Wilderness, is owned and managed by The Appalachian Mountain Club. More than 500,000 acres of Baxter State Park and adjoining conservation lands lie to the north.

Camp Chewonki for Girls will set itself apart from other girl's camps in Maine first and foremost because of its wilderness setting and program centered on wilderness travel. The summer will be broken into two 3-week sessions, the number of girls in camp never exceeding 40 at one time. Girls ages 10-14 will participate in a combination of in-camp activities and wilderness travel, with a total of 13 days in camp during the 3 weeks. Girls ages 14-16 will be in camp only for the first two days and last two days of their 3 weeks.

Camp Chewonki for Girls seeks a Waterfront Director who will oversee all waterfront activities, including sailing, kayaking, canoeing, and swimming. The Waterfront Director will design programming for the activity blocks, as well as all-camp waterfront events and Exploration Day trips. The Waterfront director is responsible for bringing an appreciation of Chewonki's unique pristine waterfront to the greater community through early morning Polar Bear swims, General Swim, special events on the 4th of July, and other all camp activities. In addition, the Waterfront Director fulfills Senior Staff responsibilities and acts as a mentor to younger staff.

The job working at a camp is challenging, demanding, and requires a great deal of patience and understanding. Personal lifestyle sacrifices may have to be made. Sensitive and dynamic leadership is necessary to provide youngsters the opportunity to grow, to relate to others, to establish life-long values and to increase their awareness of the natural world.
